Clothing distribution in colony Ischajaschi, Slawgorod Uyezd, Siberia. Secretary Harder of the Gljaden region distributes a few yards of cloth to the very neediest of this Mennonite colony. The overburdened mother must decide whether to make dresses for two or three of her little daughters who are now more than half naked or a shirt for the father so he can work, or some underwear. The mothers also are usually in rags but with the mother's characteristic self-denial she thinks first of her little ones. They have no clothing except what they have on and no possibility of providing any for the winter. A report of our relief work will be found on page 29.

INTRODUCTION

We take pleasure in presenting to our readers the Year Book for 1925. It tells of another year of service for the Master. In the articles will be found information concerning nearly every phase of activity of the Mennonite Church. It is the aim in this annual publication to give historical and inspirational articles, which describe the work that has been done in the past and the opportunities which lie before us and beckon us on to more faithful service in the future.

Our mission work, relief work, young people's meeting activities, Sunday school, evangelistic, educational, and charitable labors are all dealt with by some competent writer.

We cannot refer to all of these articles in detail nor would we do so if we had sufficient space. Their message speaks for them better than anything which we could say. However, there are a few things that we wish to call especial attention to.

In January, 1525, occurred the organization of religious forces that may properly be called the beginning of the present Mennonite Church, altho that name was not adopted until later. Hence our church has now reached its four hundredth anniversary. In commemoration of this event we print a historical sketch by Bro. Horsch in which the beginnings of the Church are briefly stated. We hope our four hundredth birthday will stimulate a greater interest in the history of our forefathers in the Faith, and instill within us a burning desire to live lives worthy of the rich heritage which they have left us, the story of which is written in blood. Our appreciation of what they have done for us will best be expressed in the living of lives that are wholly consecrated and devoted to the service of our Master, for which our fathers labored and died.

The article describing the Historical Library which is located at the Mennonite Publishing House at Scottdale will bring before us some idea of the rich store of historical material which has been collected. We hope the Church in general will learn to prize its value and members avail themselves of its use, which is free to all who come to Scottdale.

The year that is past has been the twenty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of foreign mission work by our people. Progress has been made, but we look forward to the next quarter of a century if the Lord tarries, to bring us still greater achievements. May our prayers ascend to this end. The article by Bro. Ressler on Memories of India will be read with interest, we are sure.

The Calendar of Events which again appears this year has been compiled by Bro. L. J. Heatwole, Dale Enterprise, Va. It will be found a helpful record of events for handy reference.

The tabular work giving the statistics of our various conferences, congregations, missions, boards, charitable instituitions, etc., as well as the directory of ministers and deacons, has been carefully revised and brought up to date as much as possible with the information that has been furnished us. The responses to our requests for information have been quite general but we can hardly hope that everything is absolutely correct. And in this connection we would say, if you find any errors, report them while you think of it and we will correct them next time.

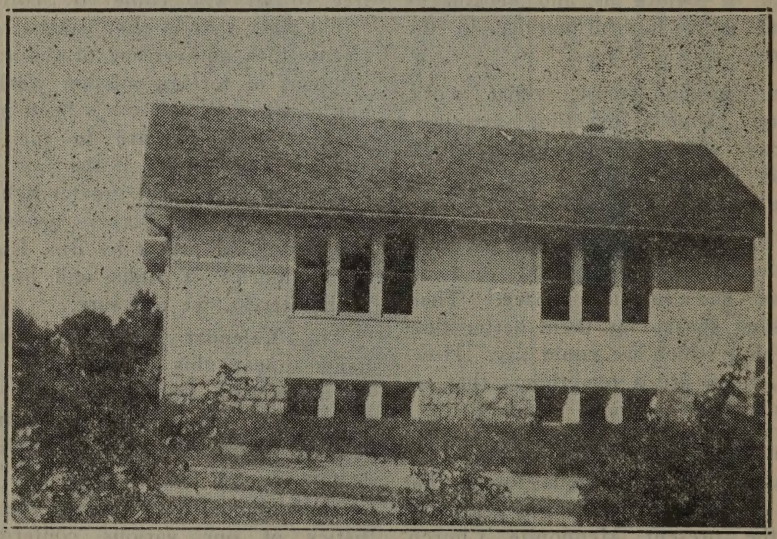
As we go on with our work during the present year, let us remember that God is keeping a greater Year Book in which we want our records to appear pleasing to Him.

THE MISSIONARY RECORD AND OUTLOOK OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH

By S. E. Allgyer

When we think of mission work in the Mennonite Church, we are inclined to think of it beginning about the year 1893, when the first city mission was born. But in the mind of the writer some phase of mission work has been done ever since the Faith and Doctrine of the Mennonite Church was adopted about 400 years ago. However, for more than three and a half centuries of the history of the Church, the idea of propagating the Gospel apparently was not so prominent in the minds of our forefathers as that of maintaining the principles and doctrines of the Church, and gathering into the fold their own children.

During this period of church work, greater sacrifice was made than is required of our present missionaries going to India or South America, when we consider the inconvenience of transportation and the persecutions that necessitated their moving from one country to another, making great sacrifice, until they finally settled in this country, where liberty of conscience was granted. The first Church was organized near Germantown, Pa., in the year 1708. After the establishment of a number of churches in eastern Pennsylvania they began to move south to Virginia, and westward, until at the present time we have well established churches in many places from the eastern coast to the western coast, as well as in many provinces of Canada.



The New Church in Kansas City, Kans.

Perhaps few of us stop to think of the debt we owe to those who have preceded us in establishing churches, clearing forests and building roads, thus giving the present generation a goodly heritage both in material and spiritual advantages. The brethren in Virginia were the first to carry the Gospel outside their own circle, going into the mountain regions of Virginia and West Virginia about the year 1845. During the Civil War the work begun by these early missionaries was seriously hindered, but after the war the work was again taken up in these parts by Samuel Coffman and others and is still continued.

The next missionary step in the Church was the organization of the first Sunday school, in 1863, in Logan County, Ohio. Brethren David Plank and Jacob Kanagy were the pioneers in this movement, and only a few of the scholars of this first Sunday school remain to this day. Possibly no other agency has grown more rapidly and has been more instrumental in leading souls to Christ than the Sunday school.

The first evangelistic meetings were held in Michigan by J. S. Coffman, in the year 1881. The following year the first board was organized for the purpose of assisting work of this nature. The funds collected the first year amounted to $26.36. The next forward movement in the church was the organization of a Sunday School Conference at the Clinton Frame Church near Goshen, Ind., in 1892. In 1893 the second Sunday school conference was held at Zion church, near Bluffton, Ohio. At this meeting the mission spirit was greatly agitated and as a result the first city mission was born, and the work started soon after in the city of Chicago, but apparently the attempt was not very successful nor appreciated and was closed for a lack of support and workers in 1895. However, it was soon reopened and for thirty years many have had the privilege of hearing the Gospel, until at present the Home Mission of Chicago has a membership of 91. In 1896 the first board was enlarged and the name changed.

Following the famine in India a number of brethren became burdened for souls in this dark, neglected field, and as a result of this conviction the first missionaries were sent to India in the year 1899, namely J. A. Ressler and Dr. and Mrs. Page. Bro. Ressler has again gone to India, his third trip.

The same year another board was organized for the purpose of caring for the charitable work of the Church. The Orphans' Home had already been established in the year 1896, in Wayne County, Ohio, and in 1900, Supt. A. Metzler with his little band of workers and children, moved to the location, West Liberty, O. Since that time many improvements have been made and 803 children have been taught the way of life, cared for, and placed in homes through the efforts of this institution.

In 1900 two more missionaries were sent to India, Brother and Sister Burkhard. Others followed later and at the present time there are 22 brethren and sisters in this needy field, with a church membership of about 1200. Four of these noble workers have given their lives for the cause of the Lord, and are buried beneath the sod of India, awaiting the ressurrection morning. In 1906 the two existing boards were merged and the present name of the Board adopted, Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities, with headquarters at Elkhart, Ind.

In 1903 the Mission at Fort Wayne, Ind., came into existence and now has a membership of 90. With a little chapel more than a mile from the present Mission where regular services are now being held, this work was started. In six years' time from this date six new missions were started. In 1904 Canton, O., was numbered as a mission station, and now has a membership of 65. In 1905 Kansas City was added to the list. This work, together with Argentine, Kansas, has a list of members amounting to 75. In 1906 the Twenty-sixth St. Mission in Chicago was begun. The year of 1907 saw Toronto Mission ushered into existence and it now has a membership of 38. The Mission at Youngstown, Ohio, was the last to be added in six consecutive years, in the year 1908. The Mission at Lima was established in the year of 1910 and now has a membership of 45.

The next great advance in mission work was to carry the Gospel message to South America in 1917, when T. K. Hersheys and J. W. Shanks left their homes to go to this country that was so greatly in need of the truth. Other workers have been added until there are ten foreign and two native workers on the field (two are home on furlough) and two more about to sail at this writing. The membership ten months ago numbered 147, and about 75 waiting for baptism. The same year that the South American work was begun the Children's Welfare Home in Kansas City, Kans., was brought into existence because of an apparent need and is doing practical mission work.

In 1919 Peoria, Ill., was started and now numbers 19 souls as a result of their work. In 1921 Los Angeles was counted in as a mission station. There are also a number of other mission points not under the control of the General Mission Board. This list is as follows: Portland, Oreg., Wichita, Kans., Altoona, Pa., Knoxville, Tenn., Columbia, Reading, Lancaster, Norristown, and Philadelphia, Pa.; also the Welsh Mountain Mission near New Holland, Pa. We have said nothing about the Old People's Home near Rittman, Ohio, which was destroyed by fire some years ago, or the Home for the Aged near Eureka, Ill., the Sanitarium and Hospital at La Junta, Colo., all of which have been soul-saving institutions. Neither have we mentioned the Publishing House at Scottdale, Pa., which is sending the printed page with its Gospel message into many homes and has a large place in the missionary program of the Church, as well as the Children's Homes and Homes for the Aged in Eastern Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The Nampa, Ida., Mission was changed to a church organization some years ago, and the Twenty-sixth St. Mission in Chicago was sold to the Central Illinois Conference Mennonites, and the Youngstown Mission has been closed. If I have counted correctly we still have 18 city missions in our branch of the Church. This record shows considerable progress, which we appreciate.

Regarding the outlook there are a number of things that are encouraging. The foreign work is especially promising. It is developing faster than the Church is able to supply workers and means, but we trust the native helpers will be a great asset to the work, and each earnest Christian will be willing to do his part. We look at the city missions and see some well established congregations that are whole-heartedly defending the principles and doctrines of the Church which is a very encouraging feature in the work. The rural field is receiving more attention and the planting of the mission spirit into the coming generation through the various methods that are being used makes the outlook especially encouraging.

FOURTH CENTENNIAL ANNIVERSARY OF THE FOUNDING OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH

By John Horsch

The first congregation of the Mennonite Church was organized in the month of January, 1525, in the city of Zurich in Switzerland. As a church we are now four hundred years old.

Four centuries ago, before the organization of the congregation in Zurich, there existed an evangelical denomination called the Waldenses. They were found in various countries of Europe, especially in certain mountain regions of Italy and France. They were severely persecuted for their faith. The Waldenses defended the principle of nonresistance. In faith and practice they were similar to the Mennonites. The early fathers of the Mennonite Church were influenced by the Waldenses.

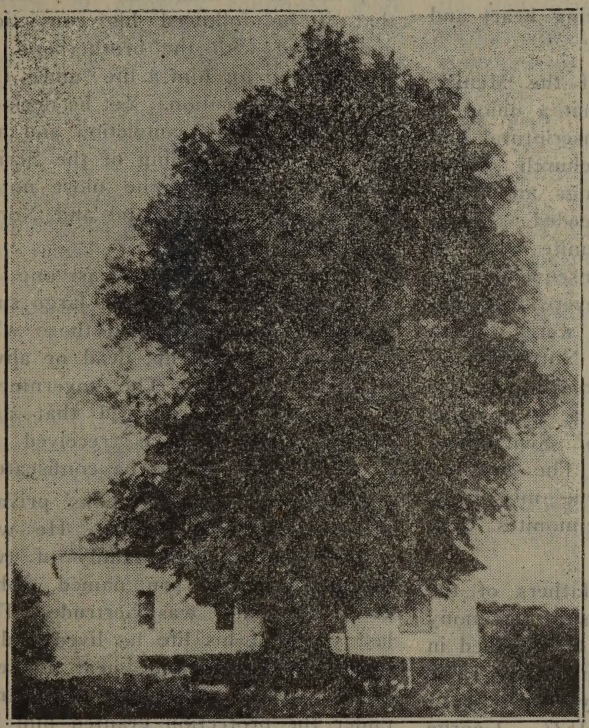
Among the founders of the first congregation in Zurich Conrad Grebel, Felix Manz, and George Blaurock deserve mention. There was in Zurich, besides the Mennonite congregation, a large Protestant Church, of the Zwinglian denomination. It was called a state church because it was united with the state, or with the civil government. The government enforced a law that every person, whether he desired to be a Christian or not, must unite with the Protestant state church. Whosoever declined to do so was severely punished. The state church was not organized according to Scriptural principles. It was merely a department of the state.



Menno-Linde
A Linden Tree, Traditionally Claimed to Have Been Planted by Menno Simons near Wuestenfelde.

Our forefathers in the faith believed that the church should be organized and conducted according to the teaching of the Holy Scriptures. Furthermore they believed that all the commandments of the New Testament should be heeded. The Bible teaches that the church should consist of those who have accepted and confessed Christ and are willing to walk in His ways. Scripture also teaches the need of church discipline which means that those who do not abide by the doctrine and commands of Christ should be reproved or, if necessary, excluded from the church. Under the state church system there could be no Scriptural discipline. According to the law of the state every person must be made a member of the church by infant baptism and must remain a member for life. Transgressors could not be excluded. And in other respects also the state church ignored and compromised various points of clear Scriptural teaching.

Professor Walter Koehler, of the University of Zurich, a noted historian of the Reformed Church says, the early Mennonites stood loyally and uncompromisingly for the Christianity of the Bible, and it was because of their loyalty to Scripture teaching that they refused to make common cause with the Protestant state church. He speaks of them as "consistent Bible Christians." Another Protestant historian, Professor Hagenbach, of Basel, said in his "History of the Reformation" that their leading principle was, to lay hold on the truths and precepts of Scripture with a believing heart and carry them out in life.

The early fathers of the Mennonite Church realized that a union of church and state is unscriptural and that under the state church system various Biblical teachings and commands could not be heeded. Therefore they refused to unite with the state church. The consequence was that the state took severe measures against them. Many were put to death for their faith. Notwithstanding the bloody persecution, the church spread within a short time over various parts of Switzerland and other countries. The brotherhood manifested a true missionary spirit. The early Mennonites were a missionary church.

Most of the early fathers of the Church gave their lives in testimony for the truth. Conrad Grebel died in prison at Mayenfeld, in 1526. Felix Manz was executed by drowning at Zurich, in January, 1527. George Blaurock was burned at the stake at Clausen in Tyrol, 1529. Michael Sattler who, it is believed, wrote the first Mennonite confession of faith, was burned at the stake in Rottenburg in Germany, in May, 1527. Many others died a martyr's death. Such was their loyalty to God's Word that they would not under any consideration depart from its teachings. Great were the sufferings, privations, and hardships which they endured. It has been rightfully said that the early history of the Church "is written with blood and tears."

In January of the year 1536, or about eleven years after the founding of the first congregation in Zurich, Menno Simons was converted and united with the Church. He was born in 1496 at Witmarsum in Friesland, Holland. He was brought up in the Roman Catholic Church and was educated for the priesthood. At the time of his conversion he was a priest at Witmarsum. He knew that if he followed his conviction and united with the brotherhood, it would mean for him a life "under the cross" of persecution. Yet he decided to be true to his conviction and accept the plain teaching of the Scriptures. He became the most noted church leader in Holland and North Germany.

Menno Simons' life was one of hardship and privation. A large sum of money was offered to those who would deliver him up, dead or alive, to the authorities. The government of certain states decreed that any house where he was received or given lodging was to be confiscated.

Concerning Menno Simons' private life not much is known. He was married and had a family of two daughters and a son named, John. His wife's name was Gertrude. The last years of his life he lived undisturbed at Wustenfelde near Fresenburg in Holstein, North Germany, under the protection granted him by a certain nobleman. Here he owned a printing press. He died in peace in 1561.

Menno Simons was a prolific writer, ever ready to expound and defend the faith and to repudiate the slanders advanced by those who persecuted the Church. The name Mennonite was first used as a nickname by the opponents but was later adopted by the brotherhood. Menno's most prominent co-worker was Dirck (Theodore) Philips. His writings, as well as those of Menno Simons, have been translated and published in the English language.

In Holland the bloody persecution soon abated and toleration was granted to the Mennonites by the state authorities. In Switzerland persecution continued for over two centuries. The last Swiss martyr was Bishop Hans Landis who was beheaded at Zurich, in 1614, but persecution by imprisonment and confiscation of property continued more than a century longer. After 1650 many fled into the Palatinate, a province on the Rhine in South Germany. This, by the way, is the district where the dialect is spoken which in America is known as the Pennsylvania German. The great majority of the early German settlers in Eastern Pennsylvania, including many Mennonites, came from the Palatinate. Thus the Palatinate dialect was transplanted to America. The Mennonites of the Palatinate were descendants of Swiss refugees. With few exceptions both the Mennonite and Amish Mennonite settlers of Pennsylvania were of Swiss descent.

The rulers of the Palatinate permitted the Mennonite people to settle in this province but did not give them the liberty enjoyed by the members of the state church. They were oppressed in various ways. Upon the invitation of William Penn many came to Pennsylvania. From here the Church spread to Virginia, Ontario, Ohio, and farther west. In the nineteenth century Mennonites of Switzerland, Germany, and Alsace formed settlements in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa. In the seventies of the last century there was a great immigration of Mennonites from Russia to states of the Middle West and Manitoba. They were not native Russians, however, but their fathers had gone to Russia from Germany. Within the last years great numbers of Russian Mennonite refugees have arrived in Canada, others in Mexico.

The leading principle of the Mennonite Church is the imperative need of standing loyally to the teachings of Scripture, since the Holy Scriptures are given by divine inspiration. The early Mennonites recognized the principle that the world is antagonistic to true Christianity. They saw clearly that true conformity to Scripture teaching involved nonconformity to the world. When the world and the civil rulers gave orders that conflicted with Scripture teaching, our ancestors in the faith acted on the principle, "We must obey God rather than man." For the sake of the Word of God and of the principles of evangelical Christianity they endured the cruel persecution. The history of those who loyally stood for the Gospel in its entirety, under the most adverse conditions, is a mighty testimony for the truth, a testimony that is especially timely in our day. May we follow their noble example of uncompromising loyalty to the old Bible faith.

PAST, PRESENT, AND FUTURE OF EVANGELISM

By John W. Hess

In June it will be forty-four years since our first series of evangelistic meetings was held in the Mennonite Church. The Lord blessed this first meeting with nine confessions.

Bro. John S. Coffman was the pioneer evangelist. The Lord laid a heavy burden on his heart for more efforts along this line, and especially fitted him and blessed him in this work. Many of our congregations were losing their young people, and were anxious for the special efforts that were being made, and calls came from many places for series of evangelistic meetings.

Some of the congregations seemed to be afraid of this new method, and would not allow such efforts, while others would only allow three meetings in succession.

The first series of meetings held in Lancaster County, Pa., was conducted by Bro. A. D. Wenger, about twenty years ago. This meeting was brought about by many prayers, and the Lord blessed it with some seventy confessions.

Bro Noah H. Mack a few years later, held a meeting that will not soon be forgotten. The Lord blessed this meeting with about one hundred and twenty-five confessions. These meetings were not without criticism by those who looked upon this work with disfavor. We, however, had some very active ministers before these periods, whose life and work we very much appreciate. Among these were Bro. Benjamin Eby of Canada, Bros. Peter and Martin Burkholder, of Virginia, Bros. Peter Eby, Amos Herr and Jacob N. Brubaker, of Pennsylvania, and Bro. John M. Brenneman of Ohio.

Since these evangelistic efforts have proved so helpful, to the cause of Christ, and the Church about all our congregations are holding regular series of evangelistic meetings, but some did not see the need of such efforts, until the church was dying out because of no young people coming in.

In the last year, a hundred or more of our ministers were engaged in holding one or more series of meetings, most of them with good results.

The Pacific Coast Conference reports 13 meetings, 155 sermons, with 113 confessions.

The Southwestern Pa., Conference reports 177 sermons with 90 confessions.

The Illinois conference reports ten series of meetings, without giving the number of sermons and confessions. We are sorry that these reports cannot be definitely given of all our conferences. The Missouri-Kansas conference, in their mission letter of December reported, ten meetings which were in progress or would soon begin. We are glad for the progress made in these efforts. Note the change from one or a few holding such meetings. We now have at least one hundred ministers who do evangelistic work. We hope the number will continue to increase until every minister will be evangelistic in his preaching, and will have a great burden to win souls for Christ. "He that winneth souls is wise." (Prov. 11:30)

Thru these meetings, or special efforts, we have gathered very many children and young people into the Church, and we praise the Lord for them.

As we think back of the many who were lost to our beloved Church, who might have been active workers with us, our hearts are made sad; but as we think of the many faithful active workers in the Lord's vineyard now at work, our hearts rejoice.

The Church did not have as many problems then, practically no young people's problems, for nearly all of the members were of mature age, and had married before they united with the Church, and only the more stable united with us. The method of teaching was more adapted for such members.

With these changed conditions of our membership many new problems are continually arising. Some questions of importance for us to think about are: Are we teaching these dear young people what they need in order to grow, or are we still teaching and preaching as though we had all matured minds, or such who have settled down in life? Have our efforts in feeding the flock, especially the lambs, kept the pace with the efforts in gathering them into the fold? Do we realize the strong tendencies that are confronting our younger members while going to school, in a social way, and many other ways?

I do not mean that we need more sermons where scholarship and culture is very prominent. The following table from the United States Bureau of Education shows we still have many who need the truth in a simple way. Every one hundred boys in the fifth grade, dwindles down to eighty-two in the sixth grade. They shrink to seventy-one in the seventh grade This leaves sixty-three to complete the grammar school. Thirty-four start in first year high school, twenty-four finish the year as sophomores, eighteen qualify as juniors, thirteen receive a diploma, seven enter college, five return and finish the second year, three are able to qualify for senior work. Out of the original one hundred, one graduates in college.

We need more sermons, especially for the young people, more spiritual conversations with our babes in Christ, more definite work with them, asking for their prayers in our work, giving them special tasks in personal soul winning, or encouraging weak members, or inviting them along with us while doing such work. Paul asked every church to pray for him but one, the backslidden church of Galatia.

We need more men like the apostle Paul, or men who are willing to follow his method. He not only asked for prayers but was very personal in his prayers, which shows a deep, sympathetic, personal interest.

Let us notice a few examples: Rom. 1:9, "That without ceasing I make mention of you in my prayers;" I Cor. 1:4, "I thank my God always on your behalf;" Eph. 1:16, "Cease not to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers;" Phil. 1:3, 4, "I thank my God upon every remembrance of you, always in every prayer of mine for you all making request with joy;" Col. 1:9, "Do not cease to pray for you, and to desire that ye might be filled with the knowledge of his will in all wisdom and spiritual understanding;" I Thes. 1:2, "We give thanks to God always for you all, making mention of you in our prayers;" II Tim. 1:3, "That without ceasing I have remembrance of thee in my prayers night and day;" Phil. 1:4, "I thank my God making mention of thee always in my prayers."

In Romans 16 Paul gives thirty-seven names, thus showing his personal contact, and interest in them.

In looking forward we see large opportunities, great responsibilities, also many dangers, confronting us. Some of the dangers I see are receiving members, who show no evidence of repentance and an obedient life in Christ. Such ones usually mean cold formal church members, not only cold and formal, but disobedient. Coldness, formality, and disobedience often means lifelessness, and is followed by seeking enjoyment in the world. Being careless and unconcerned about conditions like these as they exist among church members, will greatly hinder the winning of souls, in time to come.

The opportunities I see are a large number of willing, anxious people to teach by precept and example. Young people are always more easily impressed, more willing to give up, therefore easier to teach. The opportunity of helping in the continuing of holding up a full Gospel, building up a church that stands for what the world sadly needs, a converted membership, living out in daily life, non-resistance, non-conformity, and the literal living out of the ordinances as taught in the Bible. By building up such a church, we will have the spirit of evangelism continually in all our services. In our experience, we find many people who are anxious for spiritual help, and also spiritual work, and we have found many young church members who are very loyal to the Church and her teachings when they get this encouragement. In seeing and meeting with such opportunities from time to time, the responsibilities of doing our best looms up before us often, and we cannot help but say, "Lord give us wisdom, grace and power to meet them all in an effective way.

CURRENT ISSUES AND HOW TO MEET THEM

By J. A. Heiser

Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you that ye should earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints" (Jude 3).

There are many issues before the Church today which threaten to undermine the fundamentals of the faith, and they bring with them some very perplexing problems. We shall consider a few of them and if we can offer a few helpful suggestions we shall have accomplished our purpose. If we shall continue to maintain our testimony for Christ, as the enemy comes in like a flood, we must lift up a standard against him.

I. The New Theology.—Here the authenticity of the Holy Scriptures is thrown aside, even denying our Lord Jesus Christ and His blood atonement, and enthroning the human mind and allowing it to be the supreme judge. We find here the outspoken higher critic class who hold out a social program of religion and are easily detected. "From such turn away."

Following are a few statements common to them: (1) "I don't care if God mussed up His hands in mud to make Adam, or if he sprang from cell life according to Darwin's theory, preferably the latter—denying the creation. Gen. 2:7. (2) "Every child has its own garden of Eden and must have its own fall if it ever has one"—denying the fall of man. Gen. 3:6. (3) "The slaughter-house religion was all right for the dark ages, but it is indeed a very inadequate religion for this enlightened age"—denying the essence of the blood atonement. Heb. 9:22. (4) "The child shall grow up a Christian and never know himself otherwise,"—thus denying the effect of the fall. Rom. 5:12. (5) The example of Jesus' life as an ideal is the dynamic force which makes a Christian—denying the redemptive work of Christ. Col. 1:20. These are only a few of the outspoken denials of "the faith once delivered to the saints."

Then there is another class who hold more or less of these destructive theories, but do not publicly acknowledge it. These teachers can usually be detected not so much in what they say and teach, as in what they do not say.

Then still another class will accept all the fundamentals of the Christian faith as truth, but they say that this is not essential. Thus the result is after all a denial of the Christian faith. In view of these alarming conditions in many churches (also in educational institutions of our land—where young men and women are receiving their training for service, those who are to fill our pulpits and hold important positions in our churches in the near future if the Lord tarries) let us put forth every effort:

1. That parents be informed on these dangers. There are too many parents who say "I don't understand these things," hence give them little more than a passing thought.

2. That we are very careful what kind of teaching our young people are getting in our high schools, normals and colleges. I have in mind a fine young man, a son of Mennonite parents who came home from the State Normal School, and made this statement: I will not accept a single thing in the Bible unless I can reason it out in my own mind."

3. The ministry should at all times come out with a clear, ringing testimony for Jesus Christ and Him crucified.

4. We should inform our young people of the dangers confronting the Church along this line and really in earnest contend for the faith once for all delivered to the saints.

II. Decrease in Church Membership. "And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved" (Acts 2:47). This is said of the early church.

1. In many sections we find church leaders greatly rejoicing over one or two souls gathered into the church in one year, and they should rejoice, considering the value of one soul. But this should have been multiplied, many times. We are too easily satisfied along this line.

2. Then there are those who rejoice in this that they are succeeding in gathering in their own children from time to time.

3. Still another class is struggling to be able to hold what members they have and at the end of the year find that a goodly number have withdrawn,—some to other denominations giving them more worldly liberty, and others back to the present evil world.

Why these conditions? Let us bear in mind that Christ commissioned us to seek the lost (Matt. 28:19), and not the lost to seek the church. (1) We need more ministers who have a vision of the need of a lost and dying world. (2) We need a witnessing church that is willing to be a living testimony of Christ and His saving grace in word, in appearance, in business, in social purity, etc., (I Thess. 1:5-9), and a ministry that is on fire for the Lord. These two pulling together will accomplish great things for the Lord even in these last and perilous times.

III. Poor Church Attendance.—"Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another: and so much the more as ye see the day approaching" (Heb. 10:25). There seems to be a great tendency on the part of many to overlook the importance of church attendance even among those who consider themselves in good standing. I think of an old brother, who has now gone to his reward, who in relating past experiences, said that when he was a young man they had about thirty miles to go to church, and that on foot. They left home on Saturday morning and got to the place of worship in time for service on Sunday morning.

Now we have our comfortable houses of worship so located that we have from two to eight miles in an auto, a matter of a few moments of comfortable riding and we are there; and yet in many of our congregations the attendance averages far below fifty per cent of the membership. As long as we cannot get our members to see the importance of enjoying the blessings of being at their place in every service unless prevented by sickness etc., we will make little impression on a lost world.

I have in mind a brother who, having had a headache one Sunday evening, said, "I believe I will not go to young people's meeting this evening." After a little he found that one after another of the family had decided to do likewise and he, seeing the situation, said, "We will all go." This family lives six miles from church and is seldom absent in any of the services.

IV. Worldly Alliances.—"Know ye not that the friendship of the world is enmity with God" (Jas. 4:4)? Jesus came to call out a people for His name from among all nations to be set apart, sanctified, and to witness for Him. There seems to be a tendency on the part of many to become entangled again with the present evil world in various ways:

1. In business entanglements, where the believer becomes entangled with questionable transactions, thus losing his influence for Christ.

2. In politics. The political program is one of greed for gain, honor, and applause of men with much rivalry, etc. It has been truthfully said by a political man that it is no place for a Christian.

3. Mixed marriages. There are many young men in our Mennonite churches that unite in marriage and become one flesh with women that profess Christianity but come in all the vanities and frivolities of the world, with bobbed hair, and painted faces, and it is with difficulty that we can believe that they have the welfare of the church at heart, and believe in the simple Christian life. It is easy to guess the effect this will have on the future church. In this very often lies the reason why so many of our young sisters are drifting into worldliness. In Gen. 6:2 we read of the same condition existing before the deluge, "The sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair; and they took them wives of all which they chose." And it repented God that he had made man, hence the flood.

Let us unitedly stand for a church that has a living testimony for Christ, and keep ourselves "unspotted from the world."

MEMORIES OF INDIA

By J. A. Ressler

We have been in India proper a little more than two weeks now, and the past few days have been spent at the original station of the Mission —Sundarganj. On this old compound there is scarcely a square yard of area that does not recall some incident or person associated with the early days of the Mission.

Over there still stands the mango tree under which Bro. A. D. Wenger and I stopped for the remainder of the night when we arrived at Dhamtari in the tonga a little after midnight, November 22, 1899. The "North Bungalow" is still almost as it was when we left India sixteen years ago. Its roof has become very leaky and it is soon to be rebuilt and somewhat enlarged. The "South Bungalow" was rebuilt a few years ago and its appearance is completely changed.

I had no difficulty in finding almost the exact spot where Bro M. C. Lapp and I stood that night when we shot the mad jackal, for the line of buildings that was once the boys' orphanage is still in place, and the corner of the bungalow near which the jackal fell dead is still in its old place. That was the most exciting night I ever passed thru. There were three victims of the rabid beast. All recovered as the result of God's blessing on the Pasteur treatment that was given them. Bro. Lapp passed to his reward a year ago last May after an extended period of intense suffering from disease brought on, so it seems, from strenuous over work.

The other two victims are still living. Jhariyarin, the nurse girl who figures so valiantly in the story, is the wife of Deacon Sadhuram of Sankra, and Janki is in the widow's home at Balodgahan. She was unfortunate in her marriage relations, her husband having deserted her.

I preached my third Hindi sermon for this trip yesterday morning in the old school house, near the very spot where I preached the last one in Hindi before we went to America. Work on the new church building just across the solid road from where

I write has been stopped because the unseasonable rains have stopped the making of bricks. The new kiln of bricks is almost ready for fire now, so there is hope, but in the mean time the work waits. This morning a group of men and women were standing about and Bro. Kaufman asked them what they wanted. Their brief but comprehensive reply was, "Work." "Well," he replied, "go get bricks." They looked a bit helpless, for they knew the circumstances, and Bro. Kaufman continued, "Lime is here, men are here, women are here, paisa (money) is here, ichchha (desire) is here, but with it all we need bricks."

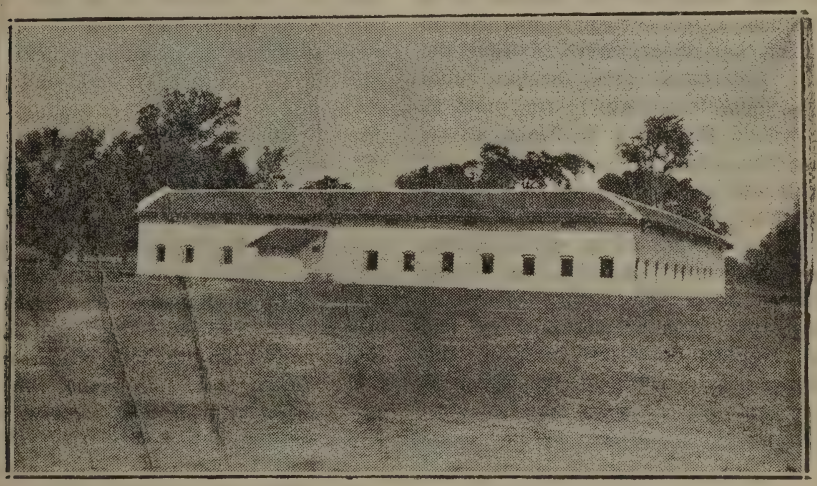
This accounts for the fact that we had our meeting yesterday in the school building and not in the church. All this seems very natural for me—in India.

After the meeting yesterday there was a great re-union. There was—But why should I name them? They were boys and girls we had worked with and there was a wonderful time recalling the days of long ago.

Some of the boys are deacons, some speak English fluently, some are teachers in responsible positions. Oh, how it makes the heart rejoice to see these stalwart Christians still standing firmly for the truths they were taught in the days gone by, and to hear the testimony of the missionaries and others as to their fidelity and trustworthiness!

Some of these fellows still want to call me "papa." And if that relation were to be taken seriously I'd have a pretty big family of grandchildren in this country.

This morning Bro. Miller and I went out to the English school hostel. That's where the boys stay when they attend the Middle School, still sometimes called the English School by courtesy, because one of the subjects taught is English, tho the medium of instruction is Hindi. The hostel is a genuine boarding house under the direction of Bro. Miller but in the immediate control of a Christian man named Das, a Bengali. There is fine work being done in that school and hostel. It is located on a beautiful site just back of the Mohammedan place of worship.



English School Hostel

Bro. Albrecht is still in Mahodi, and I have not seen him for nearly two weeks. He is reported as being well and happy. Bro. Lehman and his family are out in the villages on tour giving the Gospel message at first hand to the needy.

In the mango grove west of the Mission compound is a place made sacred to us because it is the resting place of two of our missionaries and one of the children of missionaries. Bro. Burkhard gave his life for India in 1906 and Bro. M. C. Lapp in 1923. Pauline Lapp, daughter of G. J. and Esther E. Lapp, died in December, 1913. The graves are marked and kept in order. Many Indian Christians are buried in the same vicinity.

It is constantly kept in mind that the main object of the Mission is to establish a work that would go on if every missionary were to leave the field. Perhaps the question that came most frequently to my mind as I recalled the work in America was how the ideal in this respect was being attained. The answer to the question might be variously given.

It is true that many of those who have been under the influence of the Mission have gone wrong. Some of those for whom at one time we had the brightest hopes are back in Hinduism. The heart aches as we think of these. But there is another side.

Within a hundred feet of where I sit is a Christian carpenter shop. It is owned and managed by two Indian Christians brought up in the orphanage. A missionary is in the position of "advisor" to these men, but they buy their own timbers, arrange for their own sawyers and other assistants, and manage the affairs of the shop generally. One of the workmen is a former inmate of our deaf-mute school. His specialty is caning chairs. Eleven people are employed besides the owners.

The Indian Christians have entire charge of a home mission located on the border of the Kanker State, and have managed it for a number of years. But that is another story.

The Indian Christians have a voice in the Conference greater than that of the missionaries. So far there have been no ministers ordained, but there are a number of deacons and the feeling of responsibility is growing. There is hope.

A few moments ago a very hopeful incident occurred. A man came in carrying a large quantity of whole wheat flour. We inquired and they told us his story. He is a widower and had been an inmate of the old men's home. Altho it is contrary to the customs of the people for men to grind with a hand mill (two women shall be grinding at a mill, you remember), he learned to use the millstone and found out that he could make a living at grinding wheat for Christians who used bread, and has developed quite a trade among the non-Christians, even selling flour to the merchants in Dhamtari. He is a consistent Christian.

If customs age-old can thus be disregarded by Christians and they can carry their point and purpose, there is hope that they can live independent of missionaries and missions and keep their relation with their Savior intact. Seeing things like this makes me feel hopeful and I know that the past twenty-five years — the first quarter of a century of the Mission's existence — have not been spent in vain.

THE NEEDS OF OUR EDUCATIONAL INTERESTS

By S. C. Yoder

Just now the Mennonite Church is perhaps facing no greater problem than that of her educational interests. Compulsory educational laws, economic conditions, religious activities, and social opportunities have placed us into a position whch we have not heretofore occupied in America.

I do not now mean to say that education is the most important thing to be considered, but I do mean to say that the solution of many of our other problems will depend upon the manner in which the Church works out this question for herself. There is sometimes an idea advanced that educational work is an innovation in the Mennonite Church. This is not necessarily true since we find in the beginning of her history that her early leaders were well educated men. Menno Simons, Conrad Grebel, and others had the advantage of a higher education.

However, we have reached a stage in our history where the educational problem is thrust upon us and is demanding our best thought for a proper and satisfactory solution. We need not respond and can let it settle itself if we so desire, but we must expect to pay the price if we do so, and I fear this will be greater than we can afford to pay. It is not to be measured in value by dollars and cents, but in a sacrifice of principle and faith that has given us our place in history and we believe our position in the courts of God. By an intelligent solution of this problem we can preserve our identity and faith, and through that, those principles and traditions which have given us our heritage.

But to bring about a solution of this problem requires thoughtful, prayerful consideration, and sacrifical and persevering effort, not only on the part of those who are connected with our schools, but also on the part of the entire church whether they have children in school or not. It is not only a matter of conserving those who may attend schools, but of conserving the very religious life of the Church, and to do this requires our united and most sincere effort.

Several decades ago a number of men saw the approaching problems we are now facing and sought to meet them by providing for a system of higher education under the control of the Church. They entered upon their program with confidence; and while the result of this effort has not always been all that was desired, at the same time it has laid the foundation upon which we may now build.

A number of years ago the Board of Education, which is the body that acts for the Church in matters pertaining to its educational problems, adopted a constructive and definite program for the development of our educational resources. This plan provides for a centrally located college, fully endowed and equipped to give courses leading to degrees and several junior colleges suitably located to serve the different parts of the Church as regards normal training and junior college and academy work. Whether all of the colleges now operating can qualify for these places remains for them to prove by their work, but it is to be hoped they may, because of their locations, buildings, and equipment, the latter of which can not be replaced except at great cost.

To maintain a system of schools, however, that will satisfy the demands of the authorities and the needs of our people requires a number of things which can not be ignored and without which our program will fail.

Trained Conservative Teachers. Without scholarship a school that will merit and draw the patronage of our people can not exist. Christian experience and consecration must not be supplanted by training, but surely without scholarship and training the schools of the Church will fail in accomplishing the very end for which they were established.

Buildings and Equipment. While it is true that buildings and equipment, including libraries, do not make a school, it is also true that without them they are not possible. At this time there are within the Church and owned by the Church three sets of college buildings which form the nucleus of a beginning. From the standpoint of location, adaptation, and convenience, these plants are reasonably satisfactory and if from other standpoints they can be adapted, we may say that we have the foundations of our system laid.

Finances. When a denomination assumes the responsibility of conducting schools she assumes a financial responsibility. This means not only a responsibility to those who are connected with the schools, nor those who patronize them, but to the entire Church because it is ultimately the church that will be served by these institutions. People must learn that this is a necessity in this day. The fact that the past has not yielded the results we felt it should is no reason why the effort should be declared a failure, and the only safe attitude to take is to face the question squarely and bring it to a solution in a way that enables us to perpetuate our faith and uphold our positions as Christians.

If we are to accomplish this it will mean that our schools must be endowed. This will take money which the schools can not earn but which must come from charitable sources. It may come in the form of wills, or annuities, or free will offerings, or special gifts, all of which will be used according to the specifications and wishes of the donors.

With all the above there must be developed among our people an educational conscience, a conscience against educating their children under the blighting influence of schools which are in the hands of modernist thinkers who sweep away their foundation and shake their faith in God, a conscience that education is no longer a luxury belonging to the few but a need among the many in order that all may profit by its benefits and more ably fill their positions in life, a conscience in matters pertaining to their own faith and the religious life of their children, neither of which can long exist under modern conditions unless safe-guarded in the fear of the Lord by placing their children in safe hands during their school years.

All this can not be accomplished without an effort. It will take prayerful effort, persistent toil, and persevering thought to accomplish this. It will require more than a passive recognition of the problem by those who are outside of the immediate organization to work out a program, carry its provisions into effect, and create a consciousness of the need among the many. May we soon learn that "A man's life does not consist in the abundance of the things which he possesseth," but in a rounded out character builded on a foundation laid in Christ Jesus built up according to His plan and used to His glory. To this end our schools have been established, and for this purpose they were dedicated that they might contribute in their way to the cause of the Lord.

THE PAST HISTORY, PRESENT CONDITIONS AND FUTURE OUTLOOK OF HOSPITAL WORK IN THE MENNONITE CHURCH

By Allen H. Erb

In the year 1905, in the month of October, at a regular conference of the Kansas-Nebraska Conference District held near Hubbard, Oreg., the following resolution was passed:

Resolved, That this conference approve of the movement to establish a Sanitarium at or near La Junta, Colo., and we would advise that the incorporators and stockholders and officers of the institution be confined to members of the Mennonite and Amish Mennonite churches."

With the above support of conference a group of brethren took steps toward securing funds and the erection of a building. The Lord so prospered their efforts that on Oct. 25, 1908, a large building was dedicated, located five miles west of La Junta, Colo.

Since that time over a thousand patients have been received and cared for. Approximately $50,000 has been expended in caring for those who either had no funds, or insufficient funds to pay their way. During this time about 200 different workers have put some time in the work here.

In the year 1913 an additional tract of land, consisting of 240 acres, was purchased for the Sanitarium. This land lies directly west of the Sanitarium and is an added source of income for the institution.

In the year 1913 steps were taken toward the establishment of a Nurses' Training School. Arrangements were finally completed whereby we received recognition as an accredited training school. 12 nurses have already completed the course and are registered under the laws of the state of Colorado.

Jan. 1, 1920, the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities assumed management and control of the City Hospital of La Junta, Colo. The building, equipment, and endowment were given to us free of charge. We assumed responsibility for management, control, and operating expense. The hospital has been operated for four years and has cost the church, excepting donated labor, almost nothing. But it has given us an opportunity to testify to the world for Christ that we would not have had otherwise.

At the annual meeting of the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities held near Kalona, Iowa, in 1919, a petition was presented by the Mennonite Sanitarium Board of La Junta, Colo., requesting the General Board to take steps toward building a hospital. They acted by appointing a committee to come to La Junta and investigate. This committee, composed of G. L. Bender, D. H. Bender and D. J. Fisher, reported to the Executive Committee of the Mission Board. Because of the far-reaching effects and demands of such a movement this committee referred the question to the Mennonite General Conference. The Conference assembled at Harrisonburg, Va., in Aug. 1919, took action in open conference looking with general favor toward the proposed movement but recommended that a committee be appointed to make investigations and report to the next biennial conference. The committee presented a report at the conference held at Garden City, Mo., in 1921. On motion the committee was retained on condition that they continue their work of investigation. They again reported to the conference held at Waterloo, Ontario. The following resolution was passed and the committee discharged.

Resolved, That this Conference look with favor upon every effort to relieve human sufferings and to prepare our young people for faithful service; provided that after mature consideration such efforts will be found practical and nothing about them that will lead to unscriptural entanglements.

Since the question of building hospitals naturally belongs to our Mission Board, we refer this work to the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities with the assurance that if, after careful consideration, that body decides to go ahead with the enterprise, it shall have our support and prayers.

In accordance with this action the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities in its Executive Committee meeting appointed a committee, composed of Bros. D. H. Bender and S. E. Allgyer, to come to La Junta and further investigate the situation there. This committee recommended the sale of the Sanitarium building. Negotiations were begun and finally resulted in the sale of the Sanitarium property with 160 acres of land. The Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities, in annual session at Sterling, Ill., in 1924, passed the following resolution and motion:

Resolved, That the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities declares itself in favor of launching a General Hospital for the Mennonite Church and that it take definite steps looking toward the erection of the institution.

Moved, That a committee of three men be appointed to look into the advisability of locating and erecting this institution.

In accordance with this action the brethren, D. H. Bender, Aaron Loucks, and H. R. Schertz, were appointed on this committee. They have been working and will have a definite proposal to place before the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities at their next annual meeting

The two principle problems engaging the attention of the committee are location and finance. While this movement has been agitated from the work at La Junta the place is an open question. This can be decided by the church on the absolute merits of the place proposed. This being true the final decision should merit the general approval of the church. To finance this movement requires the investment of over $100,000. To many this would seem an impassable barrier. Were this effort limited to one community that would be true, but when we consider that this movement has had general consideration by the whole church thru General Conference we are inclined to think it should receive general support. By all working their bit it can be done. Lodges do it. "The children of this world are wiser in their generation than the children of light."—Jesus.

Some may argue, Let other organizations and the moneyed philanthropists do this work. A recent illustration may suggest an answer. An aged lady en route to Albuquerque, N. M., was taken off the train at La Junta sick. She was brought to the City Hospital. Upon inquiry it was found that her parents were members of the River Brethren Church but she herself was unsaved. She was very ill and her mind was not strong any more but she was told about Jesus and His power to save. She confessed sorrow for her rejection of Christ and professed faith in Him. She was too ill to recover and a few days ago she died. Whether or not her faith was genuine, we leave that in God's hands, but had it been your daughter, would it have made any difference to you to have the hospital into which she happened to come to, be controlled by the Church of Jesus Christ or some worldly organization? Since by this means (hospital work) we can catch men by the way whom we would not find in any other way, are we not responsible for those men? And besides, should counties, cities, lodges, societies, as well as other churches exceed our own Church in the degree of interest and compassion shown toward the sick?

THE MENNONITE HISTORICAL LIBRARY AT SCOTTDALE, PA.

By John Horsch

The Mennonite Historical Library consists of more than three thousand books, pamphlets, manuscripts, photographic reproductions of rare books and other prints, written copies of source material taken from works that could not be bought, written copies of documents of various kinds, written copies of rare pamphlets of the Reformation period, articles from magazines and papers, etc. This enumeration includes only the books and other units which are of importance for the study of our history and principles. Unbound periodicals are counted by volumes, while books on other subjects are not here included. It is the largest collection of source material on Mennonite history in existence, excepting the Mennonite library in Amsterdam.

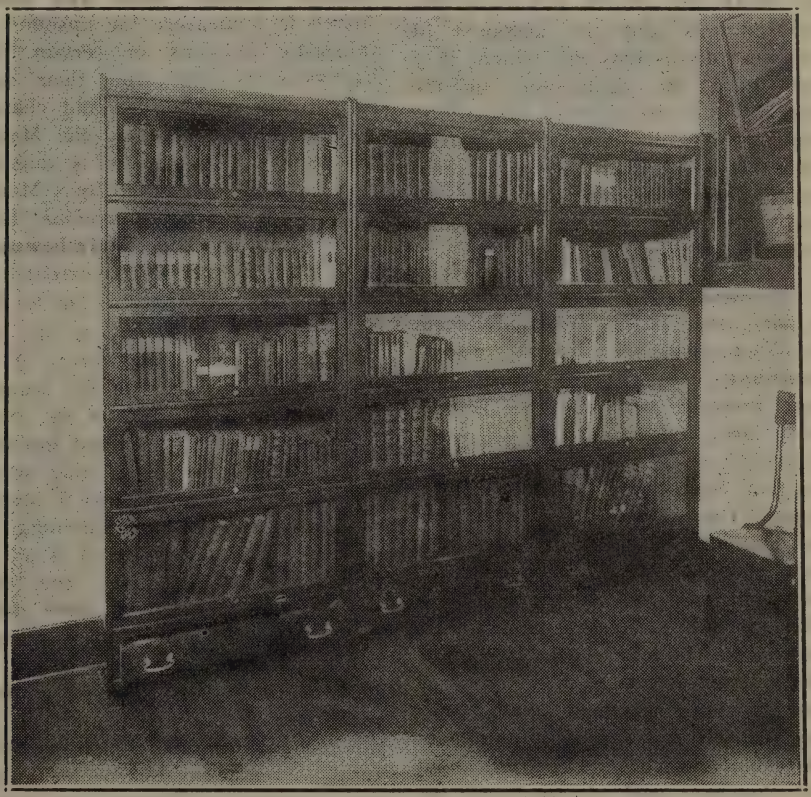
A beginning in collecting material for the study of Mennonite history was made soon after the establishment of the Mennonite Publishing House as a church institution. Needed books were obtained from various sources. Catalogs from European dealers in rare second hand books were procured from time to time and searched for pertinent material. After a few years the private collection of the writer was added. The collection of rare Mennonite books made by J. Honig of Balk, Holland, was secured through a second hand book dealer in Leyden. The writer, during his recent visit in Europe, was fortunate in securing the valuable collections made by the Mennonite editors of Switzerland and South Germany (Samuel Bähler and Ulrich Hege). More recently the library of John F. Funk, Elkhart, Ind., was added. Members of the Mennonite Historical Committee and others have donated a number of books and pamphlets.



A Smaller Section of the Library

Efforts to obtain important Mennonite books through second hand book houses in Europe were continued with good results. Valuable material that is preserved in European archives was copied by reliable persons for the library. American libraries, having material not elsewhere obtainable, were visited and the most important parts of such material were copied. Considerable source material found in American libraries was loaned us upon request.

The most valuable features of the library are the original sources of our early history, such as the writings of the Mennonite church fathers in the first editions and the accounts of religious discussions in which they took part, the confessions of the martyrs and the decrees demanding their persecution, the writings of Zwingli and Luther (which contain much pertinent material) and the books of contemporary writers referring to the early Mennonites.

The importance of a fresh study of our history arises principally from the fact that the leading church historians (of Europe), who have done research work in this general field, are representatives of state church Protestantism. It is unfortunate that, from the viewpoint of state church Protestantism, it seems undesirable to bring to light the whole truth about the origin, principles, and early history of the Mennonites. There is still a marked tendency to portray the fathers of the Mennonite Church as at least in a measure deserving the treatment which they received at the hands of the dominant Protestant churches. The truth about the principles and character of the Mennonite church fathers will place those who sanctioned their persecution in an unfavorable light. Yet the truth of history cannot forever be suppressed. The old saying, "Truth crushed to earth will rise again" is here applicable.

The question whether the study of the material collected in our library has led to any tangible results of practical value in establishing important new facts can be affirmatively answered. A number of such facts may be worth mentioning.

1. All writers of books and pamphlets, who express themselves on the subject, hold forth the unwarranted opinion that the Mennonites descended from a sect, or sects, called Anabaptists. It has been supposed that the founders of the Mennonite Church, Grebel, Manz and others, shared in a measure the unsound enthusiastic opinions of certain Anabaptist sects, and after their death their followers modified and changed their creed and accepted the Mennonite tenets. This view is defended in a recent book written by a Mennonite historian, Dr. Cornelius Bergmann, entitled Die Täuferbewegung in Kanton Z rich, an important work that is considered strictly up to date.

Now on the ground of the material collected in our library it can be definitely shown that the founders of the first congregation in Zurich were free from the unsound teachings laid to their charge; in other words, that this congregation was a Mennonite church from the beginning. It is needless to say that this is an important fact. It gives the early history of our people a quite different general aspect. It is scarcely necessary to repeat here that the name "Anabaptists" (Wiedertäufer= rebaptizers) was given all who did not recognize infant baptism as Scriptural. Even today our people in certain sections of Europe are known by this name. Among the sects called Anabaptists the Mennonites were the oldest. The other Anabaptist sects were of later origin.

2. The historians of state church Protestantism have advanced serious charges concerning the cause of the separation of the early Mennonite leaders from the state church. They have defended the view that Conrad Grebel and Felix Manz acted from motives of jealousy and ambition. It is alleged that they envied Zwingli for his position of leadership and decided to make a division in order to become leaders.

Now it is remarkable that the evidence refuting this theory is found in Zwingli's own writings. Strange to say, this has not been noticed by any writer on the subject. In a book written in 1524 Zwingli states that Grebel and his friends came to him often and urged him to renounce the Roman Catholic Church and organize a pure Christian church independent of the state. Zwingli says further (since his livelihood depended on his office as a priest) that they offered him adequate means for his support, if he would comply with their earnest entreaties.

There is overwhelming proof that they did all in their power to persuade Zwingli to organize a New Testament church. For a long time they found it impossible to believe that he would finally decide for a state church since this was contrary to his former views as expressed clearly in his writings. Only after the senate of Zurich, on Zwingli's advice, ordered them to have their infants baptized and forbade their meetings, did they give up the hope to win Zwingli. Then they proceeded without him to baptize and to organize a church.

3. Another commonly accepted opinion is that the Anabaptist sects which were given to fanaticism were originally of the same stock as the first Mennonite congregation. This opinion has recently again been expressed by a prominent Mennonite historian of Germany. It can be definitely disproved.

4. Quite recently Professor Knappert, of Holland, in an important work, speaks of Menno Simons as follows: "A man of great importance yet, with all his consecration, a weak character." That such is the general opinion of historians is evident from the fact that the leading historian of the Mennonites of Holland has quoted the above sentence with approval.

This opinion concerning Menno Simons is based on the supposition that Menno, against his better judgement, accepted a certain view regarding excommunication and avoidance. It is alleged that this view was advocated by Leonard Bouwens who, by a threat of excommunication, compelled Menno to accept it. Rather than risk excommunication, which would destroy his influence, Menno showed himself weak and yielded against his better knowledge.

Now, what is the evidence for these strange suppositions? They are founded on a certain report of a meeting of Mennonite bishops held in 1557 at Harlingen in Holland. This report was written by Hans Alenson in 1620, more than three score years after the meeting took place. Alenson received an oral report of the meeting from another person whose name he does not give. This second person had his report from a third party, an opponent of Menno Simons, named Apolonia Ottes, who claimed that she was hiding behind the door of the room in which the meeting was held and could give a reliable report. The story which she told according to Alenson's statement, is an impossible one. It sounds like a dream, yet there is no way of ascertaining whether we have her story, as she told it. It is needless to enlarge here on the worthlessness of third-hand testimony, given two generations after the event. Moreover, it is clear from Menno Simons' writings that the view of "avoidance" which he is supposed to have accepted from Bouwens was defended by Menno many years before the meeting in Harlingen took place.

5. Concerning the relationship of such men as Hubmeier, Denck, Hätzer, Hofmann, Schwenckfeld and others to the Mennonites there is still much confusion that needs clearing up.

The study of church history has too long been neglected. We owe it to our forefathers in the faith to remove the odium which still attaches to their good names. In this time of crisis and of unscrupulous perversion of history, when our early church fathers are made out to be the forerunners of Modernism, a better acquaintance with our history is of special importance. It should create a greater appreciation for "the faith once for all delivered to the saints."

Only a beginning has been made, as time permitted, in studying, arranging and utilizing the material that has been collected. Besides a great work remains to be done in completing as much as possible the collection of important source material. It is not the work of a day, nor of a year. A practical question is, Will the Church make it possible that this work can be done as it should be?

OUR SUNDAY SCHOOL QUARTERLIES AND HOW THEY ARE MADE

John L. Horst

Up until January, 1925, there were three English quarterlies published by the Mennonite Publishing House —the Primary, Advanced, and Teacher's. Besides these there were printed the Lesson Picture Cards, two German Quarterlies, and a number of modifications of these for sister churches.

The three quarterlies first mentioned comprised by far the greatest amount of the Sunday School literature published by the Publishing House. The Primary Quarterly has been published for nineteen years, while the Advanced and the Teacher's are eighteen years old. These have been edited by various brethren in the past. At the close of 1924 the editors were Clayton F. Yake, Primary; J. A. Ressler, Advanced; J. R. Shank and J. A. Ressler, Teacher's.

In a meeting of the Mennonite Publication Board in August, 1924, it was decided to make a number of changes. The Primary Quarterly was ordered to be changed and adapted to smaller pupils than it had been, and a new Quarterly, called the Junior-Intermediate, was added to the list. The latter is especially designed for classes between the Primary ages and those using the Advanced Quarterly. In addition to these a Junior Teacher's quarterly was arranged for, the aim of which is to supply material for teachers of all classes that are too young to use the Advanced Quarterly. These new quarterlies were sent out for the first quarter of 1925. The editors are: Primary, Sister Anna Loucks; Junior-Intermediate, Bro. C. F. Yake; Junior Teacher's; Bros. John L. Horst and C. F. Yake. Bros. Ressler and Shank continue as editors of the Advanced and Teacher's. Quite a few of our people were not fully acquainted with the changes that were made and hence ordered their quarterlies without considering the present rearrangement. The Publishing House has tried to fully explain these changes so that no future misunderstanding may occur.

In describing the process of making quarterlies, we shall confine ourselves largely to a description of the production of our most popular and widely-used lesson help, the Advanced Quarterly, which enjoys a circulation of 45,000 per quarter.

Since we use the International Lessons, naturally the work of the editor is based on the lists which the International Lesson Committee supplies. This is little more than a list of lesson titles and the Scripture on which they are based. The Golden Text, the topics for Intermediate and Senior pupils, and another for Young people and Adults, as well as the texts for the Daily Readings, constitutes the matter which is thus supplied. There is no comment, no suggestion as to the treatment of the lesson, only the bare list as described. All the rest is left to the editor to supply.

Bro. Ressler, who has edited the Advanced Quarterly for thirteen years, has the work pretty well systemized. The first thing to be done in preparing the matter for the printer is to supply the lesson texts as found in the Bible. An old worn Bible is used for clipping these texts. Then the measurements for all matter to be furnished by the editor must be computed. Few people have an adequate idea of the inexorable demands that space makes upon the editor in preparing copy for publication, whether for Sunday school literature or other matter. There are only so many pages for each lesson, so many inches to each department, all requiring a certain number of lines of typewritten material. The editor knows how many lines of his typewritten matter it takes to make a certain number of lines in the Quarterly, and so after measuring the Scripture lesson he is ready to calculate how much material he must supply for each department. This done, he records everything on a schedule sheet and then proceeds with his writing.

It is interesting to take a look at the editor's desk. On it may be found versions of the Scripture in many different languages, for he is somewhat of a linguist and delights to compare passages in the various translations to bring out the finer points of meaning. The various English versions, German, Latin, Italian, Hindi, Urdu, Greek, and possibly some others, may be found within easy reach. A generous supply of reference books is also accessible. With this equipment the editor may be seen toiling away at his typewriter until the material for each quarter is ready for the printers.

It is then given a careful re-reading and handed to the composing department. After the type is set the proof is read and then the make-up man puts it into page form, after which the proof is carefully read again. After the corrections are made, the pages are locked up in forms and are ready for the press. A final checking up of corrections on the press proof is made by the proofreader and then the presses hum away for days printing the quarterlies. After the presses are thru with their part of the work the sheets are loaded on the folding machine. Rapidly the sheets are automatically fed into the carrying tapes and just as rapidly they are folded. The different folded sheets, called signatures, are now properly arranged and inserted, and the covers are put on and stapled. The covers are printed on a different press and folded separately. At the stage of the work described above they are assembled with the other sheets.

After this the quarterlies are placed in a large press where they are kept under pressure for some time, the object being to press them perfectly flat so as to make a neat book. After being removed from the press they are taken to the large cutter. Here the three edges are trimmed and the quarterlies are finally ready for the shipping table.

While all this work was being done, clerks were busy writing out the orders and preparing the mailing labels. The shipping clerk is now ready to begin filling the quarterly orders. The orders of fifties, forties, and so on down the scale are counted out, the wrappers put on and tied, and the labels pasted on. Finally they are put into the mail bags and weighed and then loaded on the truck and hauled to the train or post-office. The shipments for each quarter amount to approximately ten tons. It is a large work but immensely worth while, for who can measure the influence exerted by our Sunday school literature?

THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S MEETING OBJECTIVES

By C. F. Derstine

The Young People's Meeting has two outstanding reasons for its existence as an auxiliary of the Church. The first reason is the development of the Life of the attendant, the second is the need of equipment for Service. Life and Service are the North and South Poles of life and the reason for existence. We have been called to live to the glory of our Maker; we have been called to be of use to God who has redeemed us with the amazing price of the shed blood of His only Son.

The outstanding message for the Young People's Meeting should be the Gospel of the Grace of God. This Gospel should be thoroughly grasped by our young people. Too often when they unite with the Church in their younger years they have rather hazy ideas as to the way of salvation.

The secondary message of the Young People's Meeting should be the unfolding of the Doctrines and Principles of the Bible. This knowledge of truth is indispensible. To be ready to live one must know the truth that is the dynamic of real life. Doctrine is not the dry and unpractical thing that some people suppose it to be. It is the living pulsating spirit that will move the soul in correct channels of life and action.

Then again the messages should contain the truth which will make loyal members of the Church. The "Why of the Mennonite Church should be constantly held forth." Narrow sectarianism should be avoided. Nevertheless if the Church has a right to exist she must have truth which we would need, or she should cease to exist as a separate body. This truth and these principles should not be placed under the bushel of silence, but should be heralded from the housetop. Loyal members of the church are made when they can clearly see the truths for which our forefathers lost home, country, yea, even life itself.

The topics of our Young People's Meeting ought to contain and they do contain the Appeal for Christian Service. The busy Christian is usually the happy and the overcoming Christian. The young man and woman of today need to have set before them, in the years when they are getting ready for life, the great field of Christian endeavor, the satisfying portion of a life dedicated to the service of Jesus Christ. The needs of the home community and the service within the pales of the local church should be stressed in many topics. Besides this some of the service should be rendered by the young people themselves in actual community service.

The Great Mission Field of the World should be considered. Especially ought the fields where the church is working at the present time be given a considerable place, since the prayers, the money, the workers in the future will all be taken from the ranks of the young people of today. There are no topics which are so invigorating and inspiring as the great missionary conquests of the Christian Church.

The Social Life Problem occupies considerable place in the consideration of the Committee which prepares the material for discussion in the meetings of the young people.

The pressure from the world is constantly becoming more impelling and alluring. Every effort should be made to make these messages practical so that the young men and women in the various localities will be made to see the evils. Better still they should be shown how to have an enjoyable life without the admixture of evil.

Giant and Petty Evils of the Day should be considered at times so that the ruinous character may be avoided by the young. Sadly tragic is it to see the life of millions of our youth spent during their best days, in the destructive work of sowing wild oats; then spending the balance of the years in the miserable business of reaping the same.

Methods of Study should be considered in the work of the Young People's Meeting. Many young people would be interested in the Bible if they could be shown how to use a helpful method of study in the Scripture.

The Spiritual Apprehension of Bible Truth should be stressed in our meetings. Too often the truth is accepted by people without that warmth and enthusiasm which helps the individual and which should make disciples of others. David once wrote, "While I mused the fire burned." We must first know the truth and then feel. The intellect must be stirred before the emotions act. Many people, and especially the young, will not accept nor propagate a truth which they themselves have not grasped, nor the force of the truth they have not felt.

Personal Fellowship with God needs emphasis with the young people lest they start a life detached from God which will result in a barren and unsatisfactory life. Abiding in Christ is a Christian essential which dare not be disregarded. The life that has learned the secret of the prayer chamber has learned the secret of victory and power. The young person who walks in unbroken fellowship with the Lord, leaving no sin unconfessed before him, following all the light as it has been revealed to him is bound to be satisfactory and useful.

Definite Consecration of all powers, time, talents, money, and personality to the Lord Jesus Christ needs to be brought before the young in terms which they can understand. It is much easier for the young to give up things for Christ's sake, than for those who have lived years of their life in self-will. It is easier to teach the young to give of their means in support of the Lord's work than to teach some man to give who has been miserly and who for years has witheld his dues from God. It is easier to get a young person to dedicate his personality and life to God than for the man who has known what it is to be the slave of Satan, and whose mastery he has not yet entirely broken from. It is easier to keep tobacco and kindred habits out of the life of the young than to get them out of those who have for years been slaves to its domination and rule.

Another useful feature of the Young People's Meeting is the acquaintance which is made with great Bible characters, as well as the character failures unfolded in the BIBLE. This is one of the important ways of teaching the young people the great lessons of life. Biography is always interesting to the average youth. He likes to learn truth as he sees it in living characters. He likes to see men in action.

We have left the outstanding purpose of the Young People's Meeting for the last, so as to give it emphasis. To make Christ known in all His glorious personality to every man is one of the outstanding purposes of God Himself. This is "Life eternal to know thee, the only true

God, and JESUS CHRIST WHOM THOU HAST SENT." If the young men and women of today know Christ, they have the greatest learning which man is heir to, they will be wise, and what is more, they will be victorious, they will be useful, they will be an honor to man, they will be a glory to God.

REPORT OF THE MEETING OF THE MENNONITE CENTRAL COMMITTEE DEC. 30, 1924

A meeting of the Mennonite Central Committee was called to meet at 2812 Lincoln Ave., Chicago, Ill., Tuesday, Dec. 30, 1924. The meeting was called to order at 10:30 A. M. by M. H. Kratz, acting chairman of the meeting in the absence of P. C. Hiebert. Bro. Hiebert took charge of the work in the afternoon, having arrived during the noon hour. The following members were present: J. H. Mellinger, Allen Yoder, M. H. Kratz, Orie O. Miller, D. M. Hofer, P. C. Hiebert, and Levi Mumaw. The following visitors were present and were accorded the privileges of the meeting: Eli G Reist, Allen H. Miller, A. M. Eash, and Howard Yoder. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The minutes of an Executive Committee meeting held June 24, 25 were read and approved.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

Chairman's Report

Another year of activity on the field of relief work among our unfortunate brethren has passed by. Looking backward, we have all reasons to be thankful for the way in which the Lord in His mercy has blessed our efforts. He has enabled us to again extend a helping hand in His name to those unfortunates. He has preserved and kept the personnel on the field; and also the members of the committee here in the homeland.

Relative to the status of the work abroad and the recommendations that the Executive Committee may have to make, I shall not here speak at length for that will be contained in the secretary-treasurer's report. Suffice it to say that we have again for the sake of unity carried on all official correspondence thru his office. It has been my good pleasure to keep in personal touch with the workers on the field, enough to give me the vital touch which is necessary for a proper understanding of each other. The field workers who have returned report of hard work and many difficulties they had to overcome, but cheerfully acknowledge that they do not regret having undertaken these self-sacrificing obligations. We are certainly glad to know them all well. Those at home and on the way, as well as Bro Miller, who is still in Moscow.

It has been my good privilege to come in contact with Mennonite groups in various sections of the country and find their continued interest in the work of relief, as well as their concern about the welfare of the brethren in Russia. Quite generally I find an interest in, and a desire for the continuation of relief work even after this emergency in Russia has become a thing of the past. Our people are conscious of the Christian duty of relief for all believers, and they also realize that relief work in time of peace and war is peculiarly befitting a people whose confession of faith includes the doctrine of non-resistance. Since a doctrine that expresses itself positively in the service of humanity is ever more acceptable, and also closer to the teachings of the great Master, than one which shows itself only in a negative form.

Practically all of the larger Mennonite Conferences have taken action in favor of a permanent Mennonite Relief organization, and have also elected or appointed their representative to serve on a central board. We trust that this wish and need of a permanent Relief organization for the Mennonites of America may soon be a realized fact.

Secretary's Report

December 30, 1924.

This year has marked the close of our reconstruction work in Russia. The tractors have not been sold but according to our last report received from the Moscow office, there are prospects for the final liquidation in due time.

The field workers, the brethren D. R. Hoeppner, Howard Yoder and Daniel Schroeder—have been withdrawn. Yoder and Schroeder have returned to their homes and Hoeppner has stopped in Germany to resume some studies in his profession.

We now have only one American worker in Russia Alvin J. Miller, in charge of the Moscow office. Each colony or settlement in Russia and Siberia has an appointed committee which has been affiliated with the Moscow office of the American Mennonite Relief. Copies of reports giving the names of each and its Chairman are on file in our office.

The reconstruction work in Russia under the care of our field workers was closed about August 1. General relief work was continued thruout the year in Siberia. No American worker was located there but Bro. Miller spent some time in a personal tour of inspection of the work. Detailed reports of the work are on file for the first seven months of the year. In the July report we have the following:

No. of persons in the district,	32,758
Aid given to those under 14 years of age,	4,502
Aid given to those over 14 years of age,	2,281
Aid given to those in institutions,	165

In this report the amount given for the cost of the feeding per person for the month is 55 cents. Efforts are being made to supply the district with a sufficient number of sheep to provide enough wool to supply the population with homespun cloth for clothing, an item which is sorely needed according to a recent report. The report states that many boys and girls cannot leave their homes because of the lack of clothing and many are being deprived of school privileges. During the year approximately $42,000.00 has been forwarded for the work in Russia proper and Siberia. According to the present prospects, the work must be continued at least until another harvest. The crops this year were nearly a total failure in the Powlodar district.

Certain portions of Russia are again in very sore need of assistance to tide them over the winter months. The Koeppnerthal district is among this list. Funds have been forwarded for this purpose and the need will continue. An early estimate had placed the amount needed at $1,000.00 a month. In this connection we must remember the many widows and orphans who will find their battle for life a very difficult one.

The clothing gathered by our sewing circles during the year has been forwarded to Germany. The need there has been very urgent, and the expense in forwarding to Russia has been prohibitive for any assistance there.

Our further needs will center around the work in Siberia and the assistance that may be needed in the several stricken districts in Russia proper. A very conservative estimate would place the sum of the amount needed per month at $5,000.00 or $6,000.00 per month for the next six months.

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF THE MENNONITES OF FRANKLIN COUNTY, PA.

John L. Horst

A few Mennonites found their way to Franklin County as early as 1735. Among these were Jacob Schnebele, Samuel Bechtel, and others. The latter was a minister for many years but it is not known whether he was already serving in that capacity at that early date. It is fairly certain, however, that there was preaching and other religious services in the dwellings of these early settlers soon after they reached their new homes.

It is not probable that many Mennonites came to Franklin county, at least we have no record to that effect, until some time after the close of the Revolutionary War, when there was a large influx of them, as well as of other Germans, from the lower counties, especially from Lancaster. It was then that the Sherks, Stouffers, Lehmans, Freys, Wingerts, Eberlys, Rissers, Hubers, and Sollenbergers settled in Greene, Guilford, and Letterkenny Townships, taking the places of many of the Scotch-Irish. There is reason to believe that the largest influx was between 1790 and 1800. For many years they had no churches, but so arranged their dwellings that they held services in them by turns. It was in 1710 that they erected a church in Greene Township, about a mile north of Chambersburg. This church has been rebuilt twice, but is still standing on the same site. The present building was built in 1908. A small log church was built in Letterkenny Township, about two and a quarter miles south of Strasburg at nearly the same time as the original church was built at Chambersburg. This was replaced by a frame building located about a mile and a half farther south than the original one, in 1859. In recent years a brick structure has been erected on the same site. A church near Brown's Mill was built many years ago. It was abandoned and a new one built, in 1867, about one mile north of Marion, on the road leading from that place to Chambersburg. This building too has been replaced by a new brick structure in recent years. In 1860 another church was erected in Southamption Township, at the lower end of Culbertson's Row. It is known as the Row Church and is located about four miles southwest of Shippensburg near the village of Pinola. This building has been rebuilt and enlarged twice. A faith congregation built a church on the Warm Spring road in Peters Township, soon after the Civil War. It was originally called Hege's Church but is now known as the Williamson Church, being located near Williamson. Another church was built along the Warm Spring road about two miles east of Chambersburg in 1909. It is called the Pleasant View Church. It was originally a branch of the Marion congregation but now has an organization of its own. In recent years a church has been built about two miles south of Greencastle. It is known as the Cedar Grove Church, and while located in Franklin County, is considered as one of the Washington, County, Maryland, churches, being an outgrowth of one of these congregations. It is under the same bishop oversight as the Maryland churches. The latest church to be built in Franklin County is the one at Pond Bank which was built in 1920. It is located about three miles south of Fayetteville and about ten miles southeast of Chambersburg. In 1910 at the request of some of the people of the community services were held at the schoolhouse at Pond Bank. These were continued at regular intervals and the work grew to such an extent that a church building was erected in 1920.

The membership of the various congregations as given in the 1924 Mennonite Year Book and Directory is as follows: Chambersburg, 225; Strasburg, 71; Marion, 70; Row, 54; Williamson, 8; Pleasant View, 28; Cedar Grove, 67; Pond Bank, 20.

Ministers and Bishops

The ministers of the Chambersburg Church in times past were Daniel Lehman, who died about 1836 or 1837; David Horst, who died in 1857; Philip H. Parret, who died in 1905; and Samuel D. Lehman, who died in 1894. The present ministers are Joseph E. Lehman and Daniel E. Kuhns. The ministers of the Strasburg Church were Christian Sherk and Jacob Lehman who officiated many years, both dying in about 1832 or 1833; John Gsell, who died about 1872; John Hunsecker, who died in 1897; John O. Lehman, deceased. The present ministers are J. S. Burkholder and Harry H. Witmer. The early ministers of the Row congregation were Joseph Bonberger, followed by Peter Wadel, both deceased. The present ministers are Joseph H. Martin and his son, Christian V. Martin. The ministers who have served the Marion congregation were Jacob Hege, who died many years ago, and Benjamin Lesher, also deceased. The Marion ministers also have charge of the Williamson Church. W. W. Hege and J. Irvin Lehman have charge at present. Geo. W. Ernst, who also served at the Marion Church formerly, now has charge of the Pleasant View congregation, John W. Grove of the Cedar Grove congregation and Harvey E. Shank of the Pond Bank congregation. The bishops who have had charge in Franklin County were John Gsell and John Hunsecker, both deceased, George. W. Keener, who now has charge of the Washington Co., Md., district, and John S. Burkholder who is serving at the present time. Bishops from Lancaster and Adams counties have had charge for short periods also.

Reformed Mennonites

One of the first of this branch of the Mennonites to emigrate to Franklin County was Christian Frantz who moved from Lancaster County in 1825 and settled on a farm near Waynesboro, Pa. He was a minister, having been ordained while still living in Lancaster County. The first meetinghouse was built in 1825 near Ringgold, Md., at the State line between Pennsylvania and Maryland. In 1876 a church was erected in Waynesboro. In 1850 a meetinghouse was built along the Falling Spring about three miles east of Chambersburg. These with a church near Upton, Pa., constitute the houses of worship erected by this sect in Franklin County. Bishop Jacob Lehman, one of the most prominent members of the denomination, still serves at the church at Falling Spring.

Note.—A large part of the material of this article was gleaned from the report given by Bro. John B. Kauffman in the History of Franklin County.

THE WAY OF THE CROSS

We may spread our couch with roses,
And sleep through the summer day;
But the soul that in sloth reposes,
Is not in the narrow way.
If we follow the chart that is given,
We need not be at a loss,
For the only way to Heaven
Is the Royal Way of the Cross.

To one who is reared in splendor
The cross is a heavy load;
And the feet that are soft and tender
Will shrink from the thorny road;
But the chains of the soul must be riven,
And wealth must be as dross;
For the only way to Heaven
Is the Royal Way of the Cross.

We say we will walk to-morrow
The path we refuse to-day,
And still with our lukewarm sorrow
We shrink from the narrow way.
What heeded the chosen eleven
How the fortunes of life might toss
As they followed their Master to Heaven
By the Royal Way of the Cross?

THE HAVEN OF THY HAND

Into Thy hand, O Lord, I lay this little life of mine;
What can I do but yield to Thee that which is truly Thine?
Here in the storm and stress of life, amid the restless sea,
There is no haven but Thy hand, no refuge but in Thee.

Into Thy hand, O Lord, I lay the treasures of my heart,
The secret yearnings of my soul, the hopes that ne'er depart;
For there I find a refuge where no thieves break through and steal.
Within the haven of Thy hand I would my all conceal!

Into the haven of Thy hand I lay this will of mine;
O take it now and may it be Thine own, Lord, ever Thine.
So blend it with Thy holy will that Thine and mine are one,
And hold me in Thy hand of love 'til earthly days are done.

Hide me, Lord, O hide me in the haven of Thy hand;
Oft the days are dark and oft so hard to understand;
Help me just to trust Thee, Lord, e'en where I cannot prove
And feel amid the darkest night Thy gracious hand of love!

—Albert Simpson Reitz.

Do You Want To Make A PROFITABLE INVESTMENT?

The above illustration represents the new building accommodating the plant and offices of the Mennonite Publishing House directed and controlled by the Mennonite Publication Board for the purpose of publishing and disseminating Christian literature.

Many have already taken advantage of the opportunity of making an investment with the institution and eternity alone will reveal the final results of these investments. Every Christian home recognizes the need of good literature. Will you help to supply it? Please note the following forms which are now being offered:

1. Donations. Past records will show that the money given for this cause has increased in value three-fold while it has been possible to supply our homes with religious literature and at the same time make direct contributions to our mission stations, charitable institutions, and educational work. Every home that has been touched by our periodicals has been benefited in one way or another.

2. Annuities. Five and Six Per Cent Cash Annuities are offered to any one wishing to place $100.00 or more. By this method the donor will receive the interest semi-annually in cash during his natural lifetime. The Gospel Herald and Christian Monitor Annuities are also offered through which the equivalent of five per cent is realized during a natural lifetime—a mutual arrangement which is helpful both to the institution and the annuitant.

3. Loans. Since the Board has assumed a certain amount of the obligations in the erecting of the building, this has been met in the form of Loans. Instead of borrowing this money from banks, the larger part has been furnished by individuals throughout the Church. These loans are covered by notes given by the Publishing House under instructions of the Board. There is still an opportunity for others to share in this. A certain portion is yet being borrowed from banks. Certain individuals having placed money here have since made other investments and are calling for their money. We invite further deposits of $100.00 or more for one or more years at any rate of interest demanded by the depositor not to exceed 6% per annum. Interest is paid annually when due. Notes renew automatically when the interest is paid unless notice demanding payment is given 30 days before due. This phase of our work has been very agreeable both to the House and Board as well as to the investor.

Correspondence solicited.
